

Project: A Story About How I Grow Up As An Artist

SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
A FILM BY JENNY NING ZHAN
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	This is a story about me – how I grow up as an artist from NO to YES.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	Am I an artist, I always ask this question to me. In my perspective, an artist should be a famous painter, like Picasso. An artist can be good at different art formats, meanwhile, at least he needs to be well-known, so he is qualified to be called as an ARTIST.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	Before entering into Art Education graduate program, I treated myself as a photographer and filmmaker, but I was not an artist, after all I am not famous, and I did not know much about traditional studio art formats. So, I was inclined to call myself - photographer and filmmaker, Actually, I've taken a bunch of photos and videos. I believe that everybody has his/her own right to have beautiful portraits, and I have “magic” power to make it come true.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT

	Besides that, I am fond of film very much, because it displays world in a dynamic way. Film can increase our knowledge about our own and other cultures. Moreover, it enhances our cross-cultural skills, such as empathy, listening, mindfulness. I treat myself as a filmmaker, because I've been creating a lot mini-films, which contain different stories. I make communication (verbal and non-verbal) visible.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	SO, am I an artist? My answer was NO.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	After studying in Art Education, my perception towards artist has been transformed. My advisor Dr. Unrath's face is showing up in my brain. "YOU ARE THE ARTIST Jenny. DEFINITELY!" I can see Dr. Roupp's face is spirally flying in my brain as well. They push me to consider myself as an artist.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	Self-identifying as an artist is critical when I am making artworks. It is significant to cultivate artistic thinking. I'm so happy that I've got opportunities to explore traditional studio art formats, and I've found that I have strong potential to be an artist.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT

	Fibers, for instance, I twined the basket naturally and the result – my artwork was exhibited in fine art building. WOW, I am so proud of myself.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	Now, I am taking drawing and printmaking courses. The more I engage with traditional studio arts, the more belonging I can feel along with the path. I notice that I always make artworks meaningful, and naturally grasp the skills.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	SO, can a photographer be called as an artist? Are photographer and artist the same? I think artist is the big scope, which includes photography, videography, and MORE, so photographer and filmmaker are one of branches from the “tree” of artist. In this lens, I am obviously an artist.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT
	Up to now, I’ve got confidence to self-identify as an ARTIST. Dr. Roupp has a rather expansive conception of the notion of “artist”. She claims, “you make creative choices every moment, you compose experience, you contemplate meaning. Living is an art, we are artists of life”. Eventually, I am along with this path to be a self-identifying ARTIST. I am growing up in this field with love, trustfulness, and kindness.
SCENE	VOICEOVER SCRIPT

GO JENNY!

GO JENNY!